About First Community Credit Union

First Community Credit Union started in 1933 with 25 employees of the Fairbanks-Morse Corporation in Beloit, Wisconsin. These employees contributed a total of $2,000.00 to start the original credit union. This money was then lent out to other employees in need of a loan, which is the origin of most modern-day credit unions. For the last 17 consecutive years the credit union has been ranked as a Bauer Financial Five-Star Superior credit union and in 2015 was ranked in the Top 200 of Healthiest Credit Unions in the nation (#86).
